“ Growing up, Edwards family was my family. We went to church and school together. Edward and my brother were like brothers and often hung in the neighborhood. At one point they attended Fairview (now Middle College) together. One day my mom thought something was wrong because they took too long coming home. The truth was that they were purposely missing the city bus to hangout with their classmates. We all attended Hamilton High School together and whenever you saw Edward, you saw my brother and vice versa. There are so many other memories but I would never forget how they smiled and laughed. Just two young men from the inner city just trying to enjoy life. R.I.P. Edward. You will truly be missed.
